
Each point represents one tissue region. Distances use source centroid-coordinate units.

Mutual matching requires one-to-one links. Upstream segmentation geometries were not independently validated.